

Behavioural safety impact – interventions

Bespoke solutions for your one-off needs

As behavioural safety specialists, Keystone excel in end-to-end behavioural safety consultancy, creating innovative programmes that deliver behavioural change across your workforce. We also understand that sometimes you might just need something else.

Whether you're looking for one-off development workshops for a particular area of your workforce, one-to-one behavioural coaching sessions for key individuals, or large scale theatre presentations for an event or conference, we have the experience and expertise to help you deliver the outcomes required.

Events and Conferences

Delivering at large scale events to numbers between 50 – 500, our conference packages add that hard hitting, at times humorous and always unique element that makes the difference. We have a suite of theatre based material ready to be positioned to reflect your specific culture, or can create a unique package especially for your particular needs.

Bolt-on sessions

Complimentary, bespoke sessions add impact to your existing safety initiatives. Whether your teams require one-off behavioural input to their IOSH/NEBOSH qualifications, or simply require a high impact 'refresher' on pre-existing initiatives, we partner with you to embed the learning through actor based scenarios.

Coach the Coach

Our specialist facilitators and coaches lead your safety individuals through accelerated coaching sessions. Actor based exercises add real challenge and allow delegates to combine their existing knowledge with the behaviours and communication skills required to affect real change.

Call us to discuss the above. Let's start the conversation...
